

COMPANY PROFILE

The Practice

Don Fox Planning Pty Ltd (DFP) was founded in 1981 to provide the private and public sector, including the development industry, Local, State and Federal Governments professional, independent and specialist advice on:

- Strategic and statutory planning matters;
- Land and Environment Court appeals;
- Government administration and planning processes;
- Development feasibilities and advice;
- Environmental sustainability matters;
- Project coordination; and
- Retail and economic assessment.

We have grown to be one of the largest, independent town planning practices in NSW. DFP currently employs a team of 10 town planners, 1 civil engineer, 1 urban designer and 4 support staff. In 2008, DFP merged with Hirst Consulting Services and in addition to our town planning services we now have expertise in retail and economic assessment.

The team at DFP has an enviable reputation for solving difficult and complex planning and development issues and for achieving sound economic and environmental solutions for our clients.

The basis of our company's success relies on our in-house professional team with skills in town planning, civil engineering, environmental assessment and project management. However, where projects require solutions from other disciplines the firm will manage experts in the necessary specialist fields to provide innovative and cost effective results. We have developed a close working relationship with the principals of a number of allied consulting firms throughout NSW who are able to provide specialist advice in their various fields including acoustics, traffic, drainage, fauna and flora, land stability, surveying, legal advice, etc.

DFP is a corporate member of the Association of Consulting Planners affiliated with Planning Institute Australia and conforms to the Code of Ethics of the Association.

Our Client Base

DFP, through its operation over twenty years, has an expanding base of established clients spread through Federal, State and Local Government as well as the private sector. This client base has led to a wide and varying range of projects undertaken individually by our company or utilising the services of other specialist sub-consultants. We can provide examples of our projects involving the Land and Environment Court, Strategic Planning, Development Applications, Retail and Economic, and Subdivision projects.
